

STRIKE DECLARED! ELF UNION LAUNCHES WAR ON CHRISTMAS CHEER

HOLIDAY SEASON AT RISK, CHILDREN DISAPPOINTED

Emma Smulders,
Iron Times
December 24th, North Pole

Breaking news! This Christmas Eve, the Elvish Manufacturers and Toy Makers Union have stormed one of Santa's factories and initiated a sit in strike. The strike started at 9:00 AM in the manufacturing and quality assurance lines of MTF (Merry Toy Factory) #4, where with the ring of a bell, the Elves declared the start of the strike and issued with demands to the human supervisors and to the public at large. This led to a spiraling increase of more lines sitting in on the strike until most, if not all, of the MTF factories and their lines have ceased production. The demands covered a range of topics with the foremost being a living wage, instead of being paid in peppermints and board - as is standard for most elven labourers. The Union's labour committee has stated they will not move from their positions--their workstations--until all their demands are met, regardless of the current Christmas deadline.

Many have raised their concerns over the integrity of Christmas goods made after the strike. This concern was expressed by a human supervisor (who wished to remain silent) who was working on-site at the time of the uprising, "If these elves get their way, all they'll do is work half days and half effort. Santa and the rest of us can't afford these losses from our wages". As we were speaking to this human, a wave of elves descended upon them and they were swarmed, carried away by elves to an unknown fate. At the behest of the interviewee and their family, we are asking for donations and your prayers for their medical bills and "other needs" after the interview was unceremoniously stopped by union thugs. The Santa's Workshop Corporation, SWC, has already put out a statement on the demonstrations, stating their displeasure at the sudden strike. On behalf of SWC, the COO, Mrs. Sandra Clause said: "these spoiled individuals are taking it too far within their jobs. They get the greatest job in the world--they get to make people happy, and yet they complain that they're not happy. I'm no expert on the human condition, but that doesn't make much sense to me." The Union has countered this, saying that this statement is "rude, unprofessional and unbecoming of such a prestigious and time-honoured industry."

The EMTMU was created in late 2008 after the global financial crisis, where elves were forced to work long additional hours to create toys that were better suited for the different buying classes that Christmas, essentially doubling the manufacturing requirements overnight. One reported set of toys was made crudely and fast, hurting the elves as they worked; they complained of blisters and splinters. Another set was made overpriced and bougie, where the lovely colours and materials caused long lasting health effects, including mesothelioma. This was the straw that broke the humanoid back. While union membership was incredibly small at first, the COVID-19 pandemic only seemed to cause a surge, resulting in a near 95%+ membership rate of the entire SWC workforce, with the remaining roughly 5% being almost exclusively the outsourced human labourers acting as supervisors.

The elves seem to be unaware of the harm they might cause. The final decimals in the 100% requirement of gifts for all the children of the world are at risk with the strike shut downs. These selfish elves risk destroying the reputation of Christmas cheer and jolly times for all. One gift ruined is a ruined gift for all. We here at this publication hope that the SWC can come to an agreement at the bargaining table as soon as possible to mitigate any damages. We will keep you posted as things unfold and develop; this is the Iron Times signing out.

BELL HELL RENOVATIONS V.1.1 PRE-RELEASE

Another month, another editorial. Let's get into it.

Zahira "迷失在酱汁中" Bakr SOFT V

If you haven't read my September issue editorial, I'd recommend reading that first to fully enhance your experience. You can find it here:

If you've stuck with the Iron Times since the start of this year, odds are you've read my architectural monstrosity/masterpiece that was the Bell Hell Renovation Plans. Although it was a completely re-imagined conceptualization of the place, it fell short from perfect. For one, I didn't think about framing that very editorial on the wall - something that has fortunately already been taken care of by the folks there. And if I missed such an important detail, I thought, surely more oversight may have been made. So, in light of that, join me in imagining a more fucked up place.

The Pedestrian Drive-Thru

Fairly straightforward. A second kitchen, likely located in the (first) basement, where you can grab a baguette, a mystery bowl of pasta, and a variety of other ready-meals for the average visitor. For those that aren't familiar with the concept of an automat from ye olden days, imagine what's essentially a wall of vendings machines for cheap cooked meals, with some nearby seating. Cut the seating, you have walk-thru food on demand. Fantastic.

The Boardroom

You have a meeting Wednesday at 7, but Wine Wednesday is happening the same night. Whatever shall you do? The new Bell Boardroom allows you to better integrate work and play, by giving you a place to take your meetings from before starting your evening. Naturally, it's incredibly sound-proofed to provide you with the quiet you need, and has rocking chairs as seating. Because everything is marginally less terrible when you're rocking.

The Lab

Honestly, I just want to see who the first person to need first aid treatment after entirely neglecting safety measures will be.

Concierge Upgrades

Now, I've made the mistake of bringing a blacklight there. While there are now some surfaces I will never touch there, this has indicated a need for more.

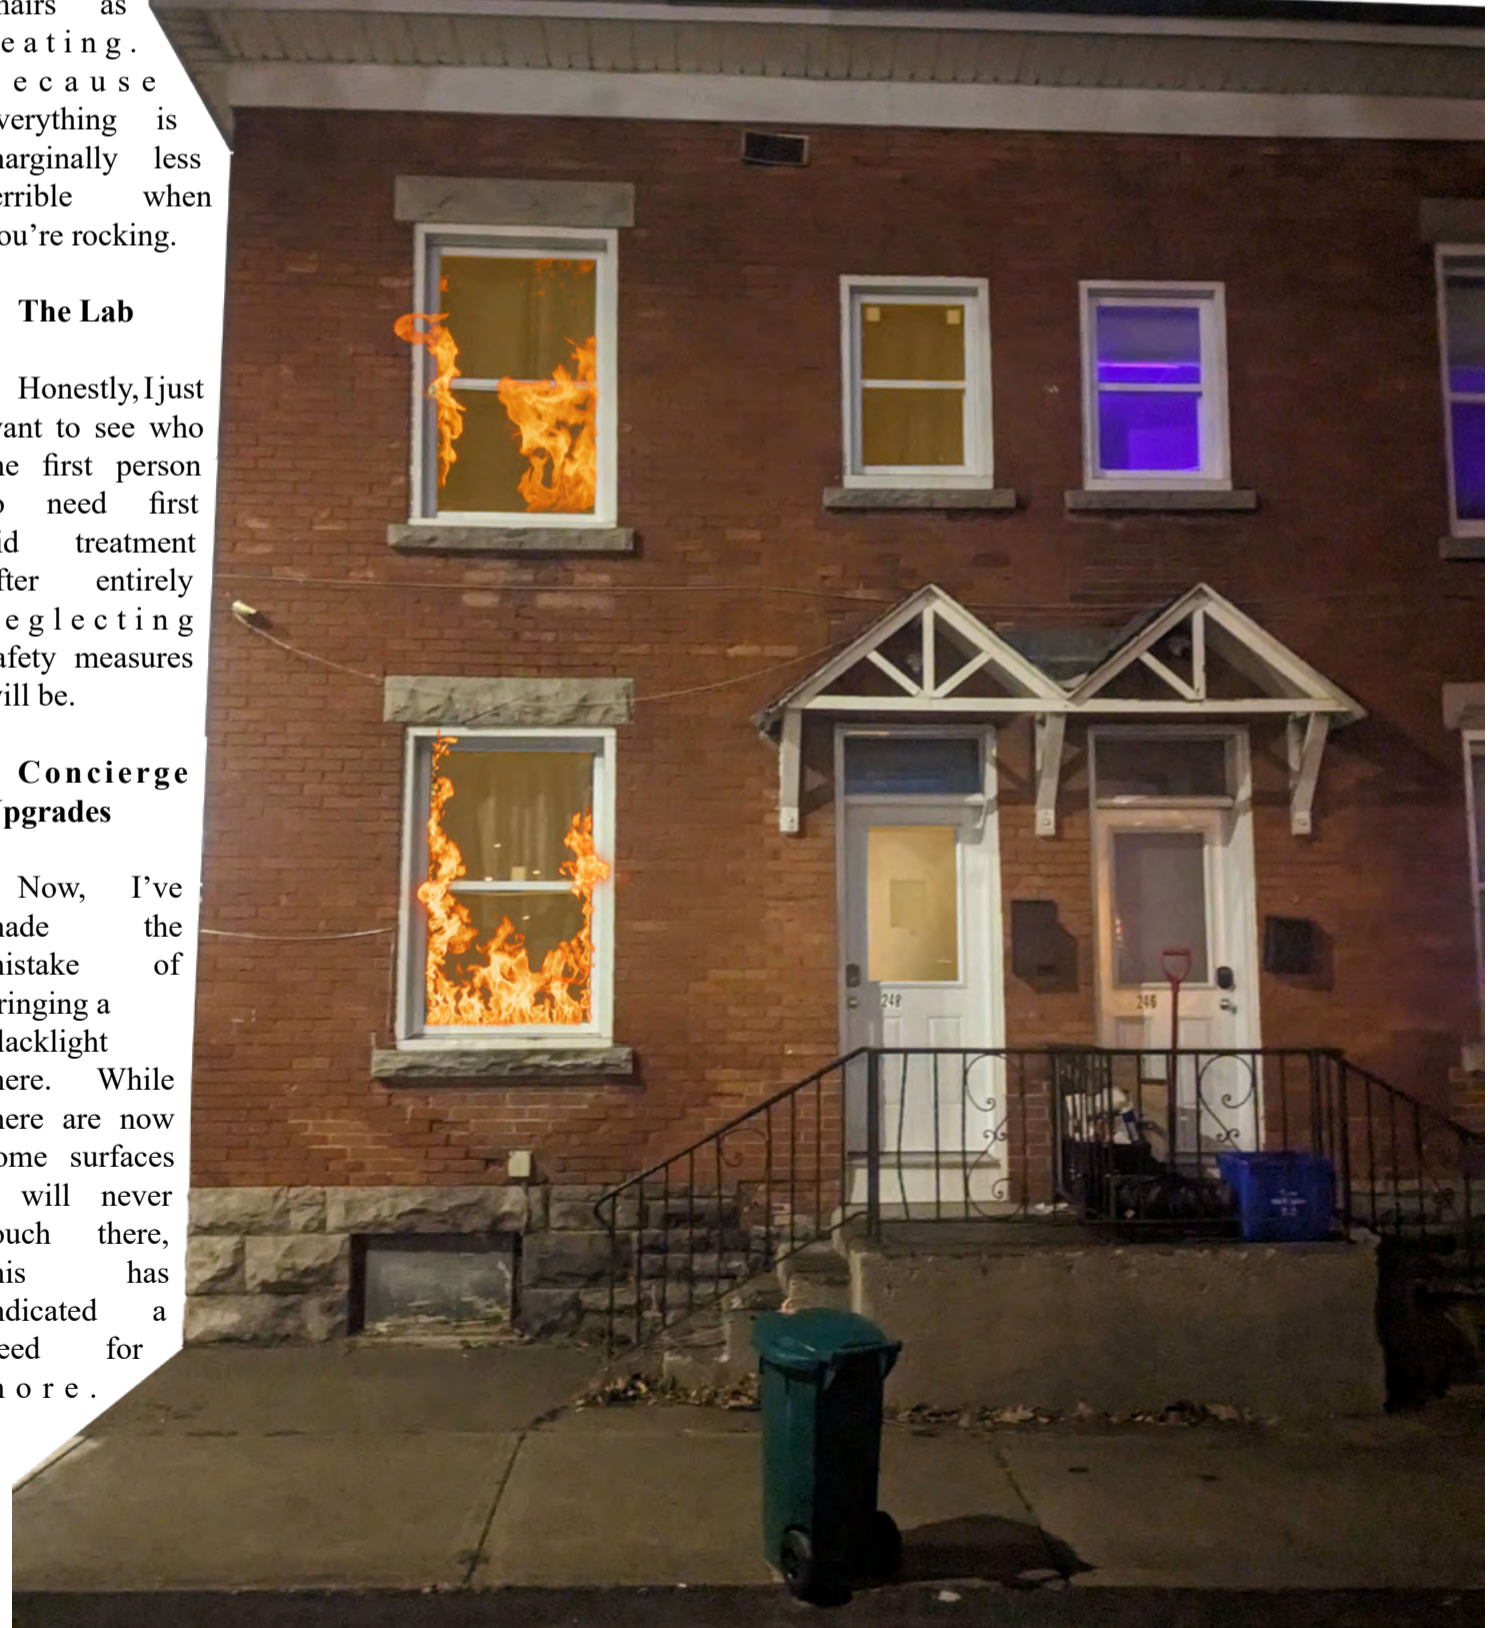

Whatever equipment you may need to clean an Operating Room can now be found in the concierge. Full training will be provided on cleaning & sterilization procedures. I really don't know what else I can do here, but I hope it's enough.

Respect for Personal Belongings

Controversial take here, I know. You all know who you are, and you can do better. This may be the most drastic change implemented yet, but I just maybe think it might be for the better. Besides, this one is way easier than all the others! At least the ceiling and walls seem to be emerging mostly unscathed, which is more than can be said for some other locations.

Writing that last one, I realize we can start on that before shooting for the moon. Maybe then, the impossible may be achieved.

therapy is photoshoping your friends house on fire <3

WHAT MAKES A MOVIE JOLLY: WHY DIE HARD IS A CHRISTMAS MOVIE

Em "Roommates" Smulders AERO V

Hello and welcome back film critics, grab your hot cocoa and snuggle up, because you're gonna listen to me info dump once again. There are 4 key elements that bring the holiday joy to a movie, making it a Christmas Movie: the setting, theme of giving, togetherness, and iconic symbolism. Another key element is not of the composition of the movie, but of Christmas all together.

Die Hard (Did you know when you die you get hard? Google it). Every year on Christmas evening, I watch Die Hard, and it always slays. Every time. And as I'm sure you, including everyone, has heard about the debate as to if Die Hard is actually a Christmas movie. It is about a guy killing Germans after all, so I'd say yes.

The setting is the easiest point to prove here. The movie takes place at a Christmas party. I (get this) think that might mean it's Christmas time. Several logistical challenges face the lead, Mr. Bruce Willis, which are directly related to the fact it's Christmas: buildings are empty, cops don't come out as quickly, among others. If it wasn't that special time of year, the whole ordeal might not have even occurred and he might still even be divorced. If it was Halloween, those corporate offices on other floors in Nakatomi Plaza would be filled with miserable tie wearing fucks, because obviously Halloween is not a holiday (and also just a worse holiday, winter stay winning).

A theme of giving is where we get subjective. If Willis had just given, like, a present to his separated wife at some point in the movie-literally ANY point-this would be all wrapped up nicely in a bow to prove my point. But, he doesn't. He does, however, give on a few occasions. In one of the most famous scenes in the movie, Bruce sends down a body in the elevator wearing a Santa hat and a custom made sweater that reads "Now I have a machine gun HO-HO-HO". Now, I don't know about you, but that's festive. John McClane (Brucey) also repeatedly gives the gift of bullets to many throughout the film; he's a very kind soul. He also gives a final gift: the gift of good old American freedom to all those poor office workers who hadn't gotten shot by this point. Now that's a true American hero.

[editor's note: eagles are screeching in my ear fr]

Togetherness is also a bit of a tricky thing to prove at face value. A typical holiday film of Christmas together as a finale. If you've seen it, think of the movie Klaus where everyone feels so lovey dovey at the end. Action movies don't typically have that sort of thing, but jokes on you; Die Hard never loses! Like a dream of all engineering students, McClane gets back with his ex and has a slightly too long lasting kiss. Talk about togetherness after all yuck yuck.

Final point! Symbolism! This is an easy one, come on. Deadbeat husband rises again? Uhhh guys I think that's Jesus? Big vault that opens in act 3? Jesus. Like, come on! I'm no longer a good Christian boy (much the opposite), but I don't think it's difficult to see that with even the most miniscule amount of effort, some parallels can be drawn. John McClane is literally Jesus Christ, but no longer a carpenter-now, a cop (vomit). All and all, Die Hard is a Christmas movie. Debate is finally settled and put to rest. Anyone who disagrees is only doing so to be annoying or is stupid enough to not believe in good old winter tradition. And with that, my good audience, goodbye and have a holly jolly New Year <3

this is so very reddit user of you Em

KNOB'S MONTHLY FIXATION

How the Grinch Christians Stole Christmas

VP "Speedrunner" Knobel
SREE III

GOOD MORNING GAMERS!! Your silly lil VP Pubs is here to wish you a Merry Christmas, Happy Hanukkah, Happy Kwanzaa, Joyful Yuletide and Happy Holidays! As always, welcome back to your monthly word vomit session, where I spit some facts at you about various things I find interesting! This month, I'll be switching it up and focusing on something that is not music, but instead, a holiday. Not just any holiday—oh, no—but THE most Americanized, capitalistic holiday of them all: Christmas.

Those of you who know me would also know that for most of my life, I have gone to Catholic schools—Catholic elementary school, middle school, and high school (mind you, the middle and high school were the same, but I digress). I am not religious, and neither is my family, but when you're from 'jolly ol' Kemptvegas, you send your kid to the Catholic school because it was just... better. "Better" because the bar was at fucking bedrock, Y=-59, level. Regardless, Catholic schools went fucking BONKERS during the entire month of December, especially once Advent started. Christmas was a huge, massive, GARGANTUAN deal.

All you mfs with religious trauma know the story: God said "Hey Mary, have this immaculately conceived baby, ok?" and Mary said "yea alright, I guess". And thus, little baby Jesus was popped out into a manger, nearly got murdered by some king (whom I played in my elementary school Christmas play, fun fact), and got some cool presents from three wise old fucks. Throughout our lives, we have always been told that Christmas is celebrated on December 25th because that is the day that Jesus was born. But, why? It's believed that the reason that Dec 25th was picked was because in the olden days, it was thought that if you lived a perfect life without sin, you'd kick the bucket on the same day you were born. Theologians have theorized that Jesus was conceived on March 25th, the spring solstice, and got pushed out exactly nine months later. So, like, not exactly what they just said, but it explains why they picked that specific date. The fact is that we will never truly know, because why the fuck were shepher herding in the middle of the damn winter, and the cold hard fact is that Pope Julius I chose December 25, lmao. Plain and simple.

Many Roman and Pagan holidays were celebrated either on or near December 25th, and most shared qualities that we'd recognize with Christmas today. For example, Saturnalia—a holiday in honour of Saturn, the god of agriculture was celebrated in Rome. It was exactly like Christmas nowadays—partly religious, partly a reason to skip work or school, and get more drunk than you should at the family function. Gifts were given, merriment was had, and a King of Saturnalia was chosen by the people, much like the Western European Christmas tradition of picking a Lord of Misrule. Kings of Saturnalia were picked based on how much of a wild ass partier you were—the drunker you were on the regular, the more likely you were to be picked. I can think of a couple ppl in C-Eng I'd nominate, you lil fucks. The poor would then go to the houses of the rich and demand their best food and drink. If owners failed to comply, their visitors would terrorize them with mischief and destroy all their shit. Idk about you, but beating the rich up sounds like my kinda holiday. Saturnalia also concluded on December 23rd, suspiciously close to the date chosen for Christmas.

Next, an obvious one is Yule. Pagans celebrated Yuletide from December 21st, the winter solstice, through January. For the return of the sun, bros would bring home large logs that they would set on fire. Ppl would feast until the log burned out, which could take as many as 12 days. Hence... get this, THE TWELVE DAYS OF CHRISTMAS. Coincidence?? I think not. Yule is also where the tradition of keeping evergreen trees came from—evergreen trees were seen as a symbol of continual life, especially at the time of the solstice. The idea of hanging mistletoe also came from Yule. Since most people back then worshipped the Pagan gods, Yule was immensely popular. So popular, in fact, that the Christians had to swoop in and snatch that shit up for themselves.

As Christianity swept through Europe and the now formed Holy Roman Empire, Christians adopted the traditions they saw around them to form Christmas. Essentially, many of the celebration-type traditions were taken from Saturnalia (among others not mentioned), and the aesthetics (as well as a couple traditions) were taken from Yuletide. Then, once they had carefully crafted and definitely not plagiarized their entire holiday, the Christians went: "Look, Heathens! Our much cooler, much swaggier holiday is SUPER DUPER similar to yours! Doesn't that make you want to celebrate Jesus? <3". If you didn't like it, well, the Christians of olde probably would've just murdered you, because what spreads the word of God better than murdering innocents in cold blood?

And thus, Christmas was born and grew into the holiday season we know today. Knowing what we do now, it's no wonder that old and grumpy Christian people are the way they are. God forbid you ever say "Happy Holidays!", because that'll just remind them that we've never come up with an original idea, ever.

Friends tired of listening to your hyperfixations? SHARE THEM WITH US!!!! FILL OUT THIS HYPERFIXATION FORM

PRAISE LENORE

an &Design poem

Ady King
ID II

Once upon a midnight dreary, while I partied, iced and beery, Playing pong, lacrosse, and titties 'til I settled up the score, While I stumbled, nearly tripping, the red cup I had been sipping, In my hand it started tipping, tipping contents on the floor "Tis a stain," I mumbled, "'tis a stain upon our floor— Only this and nothing more."

While I hardly do remember, I believe it was December; Or sometime around September when I danced so through the door. Eagerly I watched the roasting;— drinks about me for a toasting I could hear the old fucks boasting— boasting for the C-Eng Lore— For the old forgotten dildo whom my roommates named Lenore— Known as Her forevermore.

And the angered, loud, imprudent yelling of a purple student Stilled me—filled me with fantastic terrors never felt before; So that now, to still the beating of my heart, I stood repeating "'Tis some aero D insulting ID at my chamber door— Some drunk engineer insulting ID at my chamber door t's just Max and nothing more."

So I tolerate his yelling, and the way he may be smelling, "Max," said I, "or Maxim, I do hear your words that I ignore; But the fact is I was tripping, when so rudely you came quipping And my program you were ripping, ripping at my chamber door, And I ought to fight you."—he removed the jacket that he bore; Gave to me and said no more.

Then, methought the air grew cloudy, perfumed by someone less rowdy Oh, one might be less unsightly if they stuck to that vapour

"Help," I cried, "you of the stoners, would you offer me a loaner, I fear I should remain with you outside next to our Lenore; God, oh god, you should be outside sitting far from that Lenore!" Quoth the Stoner "yeah for sure."

Deep in the dark backyard waiting, long I stood there urinating, Worried that this house could soon now become something I abhor But the stream it was unbroken, while the stoners kept on smokin'

And the only word there spoken was the whispered word, "Lenore?" This I whispered, and a chorus quick cheered back the word, "Lenore!"— Merely this and nothing more.

Back into the party raving, begging guests to stay behaving, When a rowdy game of yeehaw started breaking down our floor. "Surely," said I, "In center I can there avoid tormentors." As if I know how to enter by my force a closed barn door Certain rules I'm stumped with as I lack the knowledge for;— "Words and actions, nothing more!"

When I soon stepped out the circle, I felt my face turning purple, I expelled my stomach contents all upon our carpet floor There I felt I was a goner; I knew I had left no honour, Like the naked marathoners I had caused sometime before Carpet soaking up the sins that I knew I had not yet bore Turning brown, and something more

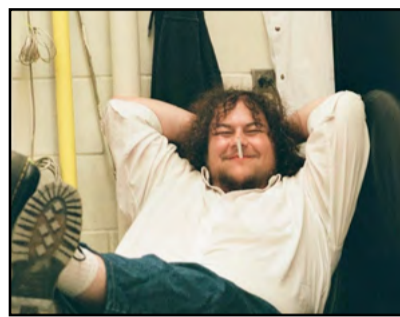

As this wicked splotch maturing, the floor looking less alluring, With my sight and rank olfaction, immersed in the sick I'm sure, "With my outfit gross and sickly, it" I said, "must be cleaned quickly, First this carpet damp and slickly waits for vacuums to show for— Hoover! Draw the bile from my woollen footing I implore!" Quoth the vacuum "Please no more."

"Carpet!" said I, "thing of evil!— Carpet scorned by my upheaval!— Whether woven in, or now within the weaves you call home for, Resolute and quite unshaken, left alone in land forsaken— One would surely be mistaken, to try clearing off the floor. Can we— can we oust this blasphem—when will we displace this gore? Quoth a roommate "Nevermore."

So we roommates went on living, oft forgetting our misgivings Only then to be reminded by the squelching of the floor. Even still, with frequent boasting of the parties we were hosting One dark day I found us coasting to reverse what we once swore: To take that belov'd Lenore and give Her now a place indoor Quoth a roommate "Evermore."

And the carpet, not quite sitting, unrelenting, unremitting, Sends the rotten not forgotten scent beneath my chamber door; And its fibres all but seething with the rage of someone grieving And eternal dampness squeezing 'tween my toes bare on the floor; And the Grove we once reviled seems to us a hell no more Quoth a roommate "Praise Lenore."

YOUR TASTE IN MUSIC IS ASS, GET CULTURED NERD

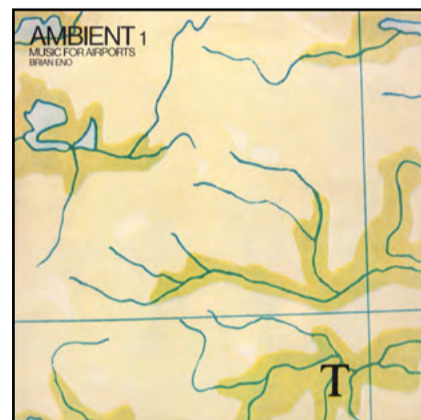

Xavier "Slow-Mo" Haziza
MECH IV

Diesel Forever (2022) – Full Moon Flower Band [3.7/5]

December brings a lot of things. It brings about the end of November (derogatory), but it also brings exams and all the stress that has to do with that. I hope to give you some album recommendations that will bring pain, suffering, longing, and a plethora of other emotions. I have also included a very special playlist that summarizes a very special feeling.

This is a phenomenal garage/indie rock from Brisbane's Full Moon Flower Band. They bring some great bass lines mashed with gritty vocals reminiscent of Queens of the Stone Age. If you like female vocals, hard rock, and leather jackets, this album is for you.

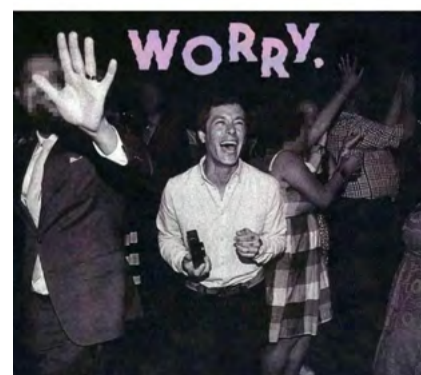

Ambient 1: Music for Airports (1978) – Brian Eno [2.8/5]

I listened to this album for the first time when I was heading to NYC on two hours of sleep at 7 in the morning after taking wayyyy to big of an edible. It's such a relaxing experience. Simple piano chords blended with a choir, and some reverb-y synths. It fully encompasses the feeling of being at an airport. An amazing ambient album that coined the genre.

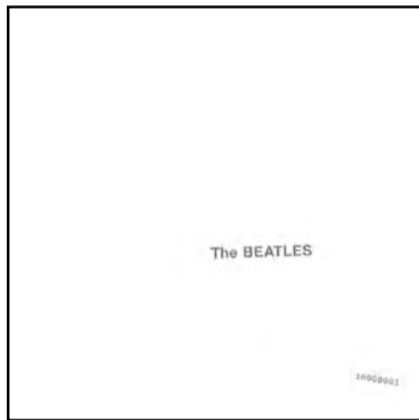

Modal Soul (2005) – Nujabes [4.8/5]

You need to listen to this album. There is something purely brilliant about this album. It's the perfect mix of jazz and hip-hop. If you don't know who Nujabes is, he was an influential producer from Japan who is best known for composing the soundtrack for the anime 'Samurai Champloo'. In 2010, he died in a car crash. His brother carries on his legacy with his ramen bar in Shibuya called Usagi. "Luc(sic.) pt3" has to be the best song on this album. It's pure poetry. Listening to his work is something I would like to experience for the first time again. Every time I come back to this album, I'm blown away. I hope that you, the reader, can appreciate this piece of art. RIP Nujabes.

Worry. – Jeff Rosenstock [3/5]

I feel like C-Eng is gonna love this one. It sounds like a window into the life of a middle class 30-year-old. The album has great composition to it. Just the right amount of noise and grittiness, good vocals, and interesting instrumentation. This is probably the only pop-punk album I like. BUT.. it's pop punk. It sounds like all the best parts of Weezer and Midwest emo but from an east coast perspective. Man, I want to be mad at this album. I should hate every single part of this album, but I don't. It's so catchy in the right way; it makes me want to mosh in a basement. It should be illegal to make an album this fun. There's a fucking kazoo, for gods sakes. This is what Weezer wants to be. God, I fucking hate Weezer.

White Album – The Beatles [3.2/5]

Man, I love the Beatles, every single last part of them. It's crazy to me how almost every genre and change in music is because of the Beatles. Ob-La-Di, Ob-La-Da life goes on, am I right? Each song is completely unique; it's such a trip going from one to another. It's such an amazing collection of vibes and sounds. The first side of the first disc ends with two amazing tracks, 'While My Guitar Gently Weeps' and 'Happiness is a Warm Gun'. The first of the two truly shows how amazing of a guitarist George Harrison and Eric Clapton were. Clapton gave his guitar to Harrison who he named "Lucy". It sounds like his guitar is crying out in agony. Also, you have to listen to Prince covering this song in a tribute to Harrison; literal chills. Blackbird is, sadly, overrated. Disc 2 has some bangers like 'Helter Skelter', 'Savoy Truffle', and 'Revolution 9'. The last of the three is such a classic. With lyrics like "Number 9", and "Number 9", just imagine you are some poor old lady listening to the Beatles and you hear this shit. Impeccable. It closes off with 'Good Night'. This is such a whimsical song. It's so... British. I wish Lennon could sing this to me to fall asleep. All in all this isn't the Beatles' best album but it's a damn good compilation of works. Also, Fuck Yoko Ono.

Agony – Take Care [3.4/5]

This is a great slowcore album that has influence from Duster and Sign Crushes Motorist (same artist this is a side project). This album is a different kind of sad. It embodies giving up. This album was so delectable, so succulent, almost to the point where it felt as if the music was controlling my heartbeat. But, that's what's calming about it. You gave up but this album is helping you.

The Glow pt.2– The Microphones [5/5]

Please just listen to this album. Listen to it again. Listen to it one more time. Keep listening to this album.

CELERY: UNEQUIVOCALLY THE BEST VEGETABLE

Matthé Bekkers
SOFT I

Celery is an often-overlooked vegetable on many dinner plates. People often spring for other popular leafy greens such as lettuce or Brussel sprouts, or the vegetables being touted as "superfoods" such as kale and parsnips. Celery is often relegated to the role of an aromatic, being used in soup bases and more rarely in pasta sauces. In this essay,

I will prove, beyond a shadow of a doubt, that celery is the best vegetable because it has significant health benefits, is nearly a "negative calorie" food, and is extremely versatile.

Firstly, celery has multiple significant health benefits. For instance, celery has been known to possess antioxidant, anti-inflammatory, anticancer, antirheumatic, anti-hypertension, antidiabetic, and neuroprotective capabilities [1]. Consuming a regular dose of celery could thus lead to a much longer and more enjoyable life. Also, since celery is very great, consuming it is guaranteed to provide a dopamine boost to the consumer, increasing the will to live and enjoyment of life of said consumer [2]. In addition, people who consume celery daily have been reported to live 13.1424% ± 1.143242% longer than people who do not consume celery on a daily basis [3]. Thus, celery causes undeniable health benefits to those who consume it.

Secondly, celery is nearly a "negative calorie" food. There is a popular myth concerning celery being a "negative calorie" food, meaning that the action of chewing and digesting celery would require the body to expend more calories than it takes in. Although, this is not true, as celery is mostly water and fiber meaning that the body very easily digests it; a medium-sized stalk of celery contains approximately only six calories [4], meaning that a large amount of celery may be eaten without any significant excess of calories. This makes it perfect for a low-calorie snack.

Finally, celery is an extremely versatile food,

[Editor's Note: the celery haters killed him before he could change their minds]

Bibliography

[1]

L. Jiang, M. Lu, T. Rao, Z. Liu, X. Wu and H. An, "Comparative Analysis of Fruit Metabolome Using Widely Targeted Metabolomics Reveals Nutritional Characteristics of Different Rosa roxburghii Genotypes," MPDI, 2022. [Online]. Available: <https://www.mdpi.com/2304-8158/11/6/850>. [Accessed 09 November 2023].

[2]

Me, Source: Trust Me, Ottawa: Myself, 2023.

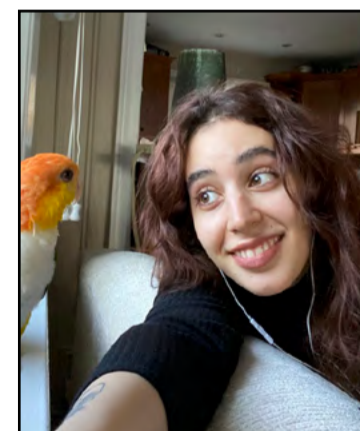

[3]

Me, It Came To Me In A Dream, Ottawa: Myself, 2023.

[4]

E. G. Lepore, "Are We Positive about Negative Calories?: Celery Edition," Penn State, 16 September 2016. [Online]. Available: <https://sites.psu.edu/siowfa16/2016/09/16/are-we-positive-about-negative-calories-celery-edition/>. [Accessed 09 11 2023].

THE FOUR SEASONS

Emily Causi
SOFT I

The four seasons? More like the four horsemen.

Hello folk. It is me, the author.

I am writing to you to inform you of something. That is, some news learnt recently that has awoken me from a state-like trance. However, before I do, I must provide some background. I'm certain you are all giddy and stirred anticipating the winter break, which will soon be approaching. The cause of this great migration is due to the age-old human tradition of imposing upon your family members to collectively celebrate a holiday (separately).

This WAS my favourite time of the year, due to the season. That is, until I learnt the origin of the word. The -now dreadful- word. Season.

Perhaps it is due to the fact that I made an assumption, and therefore made an ass out of the Emergency Assessment Unit (please don't make me explain myself - if you are across the Atlantic Ocean, located in the UK to be specific, you should grasp this joke. please don't make me feel like a fool) and I.

This interval of the year, was, under my assume-ation, a word that originated from old(er) farmers who kept their calendar under the harvesting milestones. Coming from a greatly despised and old language (the French!), their slang expression of "seedtime" (farmers seemed to have kept their words coherent and unequivocal, with no room for misinterpretation or ambiguity), translated into "seison" which eventually evolved into what we now know as "Season".

Now, it only makes sense for myself to have been under the impression that the seeds being farmed were sunflower seeds. Exclusively, sunflower seeds. Yet, that was not the case. Allegedly, they planted grain seeds and oats along with a variety of other blander, monotonous snacks.

In the end, I suppose it was foolish of me to assume that season was a celebration for all birdkind, and that it was a holiday surrounding my fellow feathered-friends. However, it is a nice thought; one where my friends and I would technically be celebrated year-round (as we are constantly enveloped in a season); a thought that keeps me warm during the cold harsh preparation for my final exams (as I am currently enrolled in the "History of Ignorance", as well as "Queens, Nuns, and Nones in Early Modern Renaissance", and finally "Fabrication 101"). Forgive my tangent.

I do truly hope you all get the chance to fly home, unruffle your feathers, and put your talons up. Enjoy the holidays. And... don't forget to take every opportunity to crow (or, raven) about your eminence regarding your status at school.

Your Secret Sully

SEASONS GREETINGS

Seasons greetings from your Iron Times team! This holiday season, we wanted to invite some of the other various groups within engineering the chance to share this space in spreading some holiday cheer to the community at large.

Have a lovely end to the semester and the year from all of us,

The Iron Times

Carleton University Biomedical Engineering Society

Hey CUBE family, all of us from the CUBES Council wishes everyone Goodluck on your final exams and to enjoy your much needed rest over the winter break! Love you all

IEEE Carleton

Twass the night before exam season and all felt slow, Not a society was stirring, not even Leos. The posters were hung in the hall with care, In the hope that Brian Yang would forever be chair. The execs were nestled all snug on the couch, Hiding from the scary, Tristan the grouch. Whether you're, mech, elec, aero, or SREE, You're always welcome, in I Triple E

Systems and Computer Engineering Society (SCESoc)

Happy Holidays from the SCESoc team!!!

Carleton Student Engineering Society (CSES)

Wishing you joy that gongs resound, As winter's blanket wraps around. May spring bring blossoms, colors bright, And summer's warmth, a pure delight.

In autumn's whispers, leaves may fall, Yet hear the Gong's enchanting call. Season's greetings with a cheerful bong, May your days be merry and gong-tastic all year long!

With love,

Your CSES

Ravens Racing

As the year winds down, we extend our heartfelt gratitude to Carleton University, our incredible sponsors, and dedicated volunteers who fueled our journey this past year. Your support has been the driving force behind our success. This holiday season, spread the cheer and support Ravens Racing by picking up some team merch! Every purchase fuels our dreams and drives us closer to the finish line. Wishing you a joyful holiday season and a thrilling New Year ahead!

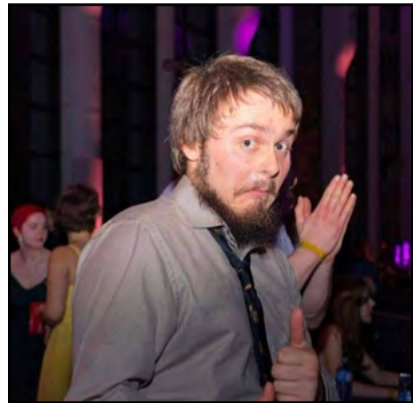

Engineers Without Borders (EWB)

D-Eng D

Live photo of DENG D team after learning about deodorant (aka the more advanced version of chem trails)

HOW TO LEO'S SHIFT: A BEGINNERS GUIDE

Julien-Gabriel "The Chowboy" Tessier
ELEC II

So, a bunch of you will be starting your first Leo's shifts this winter semester, since the whole fuckin' schedule was filled in under an hour by hype first years, which... I guess is a good thing?

Working a shift implies being two, three, or even four people behind the desk, which demands a bit of respect, order, and vibes. As Leo's Employee of the Year 2023 (with Kristin, yet another DOE W), I figured an article on the subject wouldn't be a bad idea.

Let's get into it!

1. The hierarchy of employees is important knowledge. You have the cashier, the second person (also known as the Igor), and the bottom bitch. I'll start with the cashier, because that's what I like doing best. As Cashier, your job is to provide a quick service to the people who are in a hurry, and a fun one to those who aren't: be sure to know the best ways to achieve both. Being quick implies you know the best way around the cool new card machine. Here is my pro tip on how to any% speedrun the thing: enter the cash, press the green button three quick consecutive times, and then press 3. This skips the "pass the machine to the customer" screen and the tipping option so the client can tap their card within a maximum of 2 seconds. Being fun or talkative requires you to know your client intake: if the line is very long, fun is going to have to wait for a bit. If someone really wants to chat, move them aside to your right to help the line go through faster.

The Igor is here to hand out snacks from under the counter but can also chat with the people. They're here to provide quick help if the cashier is busy, such as pointing out where plates and utensils are, or simply to chat with the clients, cool person-style. They're also gonna wanna be ready for new stock arrivals cuz they're gonna unload. They're mostly just here for vibes and shit, and are expected to NOT abandon the cashier (please refer to Ben "Three in the Jank" Mostafa for more information on this topic).

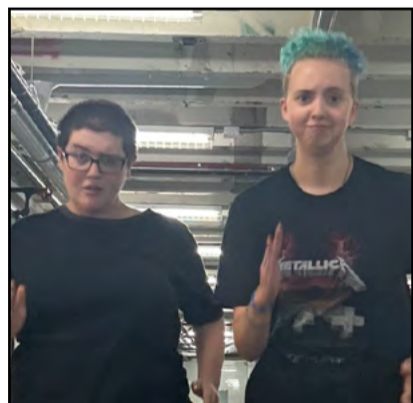

The Bottom Bitch is less than the second person. They're basically the supply bitch that refills the coffee machine and stuff. They stock the food when it gets there. I call them bottom bitch, but this is honestly the chilliest position; you can just chat with people most of the time and if you don't show up, it's really not the end of the world. Bottom bitches, we love you, and not even in a bicurious way or nothin'.

2. Make the most of your hour: if your little task sheet isn't full by the end of the shift, what are you even doing? (This doesn't imply you should write dumb shit in there to fill out the space, you druggos). If shelves are looking empty, fill them up again; if anything is even remotely running out, tell a manager asap so they can restock before it's gone. Make people smile and have a good time, simply 'cause you should also be having one!

3. TAKE OTHER PEOPLE'S SHIFTS. As in, if someone's sick or getting bitches (ew) and is asking for a sub, this is your time to shine, baby! This is basically how I built my social circle and got to meet so many people last year; shit was nuts.

And there you go! For those of you who've been working shifts for a while, you can let me know what you think and I might write another one. For the newbies, hopefully this helps! Have a good one y'all!

SONIC & GREEN SPIRIT TWO: ELECTRIC BOOGALOO

Poppy Guilbeault & Finnley Nauss
AERO I AERO I

One warm summers eve, under the scent of warm cookies straight out of the oven, Sonic was sitting on a rocking chair on the porch of his home. A home he shared with Green Spirit and, to his dismay, Tails. They had not yet grown to like each other but their love for Green Spirit kept them at bay. Sonic leaned back in his chair and inhaled-- Green Spirit is such a good baker, Sonic thought, I love him... It had been a long, long, day of running and his feet hurt.

"Honey?" He called. Twisting to look behind the chair and into the open front door, Sonic watched as Green Spirit walked out onto the porch and leaned against the door frame. His apron was covered in flour; there was even some in his hair. The apron was green, of course.

"What is it, my little Pookie Hog?"

Green Spirit's brown orbs were intense. He licked his lips. He looked hungry. He knew what was about to happen.

Sonic looked up at Green Spirit with his own orbs, golden and shimmering. "Can you rub my feet?" He said in almost a whisper. Green Spirit's lower lip quivered, trembling in anticipation.

"Anything for you, Pooks." he said as he knelt down, knees hitting the hardwood, and began to take his lovers shoes off. Once they hit the open-air, Sonic's toes wiggled. "Thanks Greenbean, I needed this."

"This little piggy..." Green Spirit began. "Went to the market. This little piggy... stayed home." Sonic's breath hitched. His ears twitched. His tail wiggled.

"This little piggy had my warm... ooey gooey... chocolate-chip cookies..."

Sonic's whole body shook with pleasure.

"And this little piggy?" He gripped the final toe, "went wee... wee... wee... all the way home."

Sonic tensed up and threw his head back, expressing his glee.

Little did they know... Tails was watching from the window, one hand gripping the curtains.

The end...

?

THE IRON PEOPLE

THE IRON DICTATOR

Xavier "Slow-Mo" Haziza - MECH IV

Hailing from
Ottawa, Ontario

Leo's is being turned into a art gallery, what are you bringing to put on display?

I will be raiding the MOMA and other art museums across America and Europe for their best works. When i went to NYC, omg did i mention i went to NYC. NYC is amazing you should totally go to NYC, I was stupefied with their art collection. It changed me. NYC is so amazing guys you should totally go. I would also include all the amazing CMAS posters myself and Liz has made this year. And some soviet and sino-soviet propaganda.

What would be your dream LEGO set?

As a kid it was the death star. You know the one. It was like open with all the rooms and you could see it. But right now my dream sets include: Lego Robie House, Porche 911, all the flowers, 3 more bonzais so i can make a bigger bonzai, Set: 7163 Republic Gunship (ikykyk), Lego bong, Landrover defender.

After a stressful school time, what do you to get back into the swing of things?

Write everything down. I swear to god. just get a notebook and go through your calendar, all your classes, and talk to your friends. Write down all the things you have to do. Make a list. Even if you dont check it twice just make it. Writing things down helps me so so so much. Also remember to take your meds <3

What's your favourite way to practice self care?

Copious amounts of marijuana in a park with a peach (key!). But fr, going out and running errands by myself, going on adventures, taking a bus somewhere and looking at things. This is what sundays are for.

Anything you'd like to say to the readers?

November sucked. keep your head up, and make sure to go to your exams even if you just want to rot. Last winter I failed 2 courses just because I couldn't get out of bed. I know its hard but please try. Also, buy a CMAS membership

Tell us about your tales of C-Eng involvement!

CSES Mech rep 2021-22, CMAS 2nd year rep 2021-22, CMAS Finance 2022-23, Cuiospace Finance 2022-23, Current CMAS President, and last but not least Flightsuit Committee 2022-23. I also made the monkey patches, the passport in 2021-22, been discord mod for cses for 3 years now, currently helping to plan the EQ canada conference, SCEMAS Dictator 3 years running.

THE IRON NERD

Luc Amboe - ENG PHYS (?????) II

Hailing from
Fort St. John, BC (hickville)

Leo's is being turned into a art gallery, what are you bringing to put on display?

Tear and tea stained lab reports and assignments.

What would be your dream LEGO set?

The Lego Rivendell or the Millennium Falcon or the AT AT Walker.

After a stressful school time, what do you to get back into the swing of things?

Cry, then cry again. Maybe make a schedule and bribe myself with a little treat.

What's your favourite way to practice self care?

Cry and eat cheese.

Anything you'd like to say to the readers?

OOH WEE OOH I LOOK JUST LIKE BUDDY HOLLY OH OH AND YOURE MARY TYLER MOORE

Tell us about your tales of C-Eng involvement!

CUE First year rep(past), VP Student issues or as some may say Student Fishues(current)

C-ENG SPEAKS

We asked and you answered!

1. What do you pair with eggnog on a fine winter evening?

Leo's sammich <3
Jules Wong
Nothing. Eggnog gives me the ick
Shanna Peper

A crackling fire and a nice book (Aircraft Design: A Conceptual Approach, Sixth Edition)
Kassidy "Clinton" Hammond

Break it down to its key components, egg and nog.
Chris Meiling

Many eggs. I lay them myself
Bramble "The Saltier" Bramble

Candy Canes of course
Avery "#HYDRATION HERO" Kohlruss

A particularly thrilling bout of fisticuffs with the local highwayman.
Jaime Kfour

kraft dinner and ketchup
Owen Short

Fireball. You know what, hold the eggnog
Jason Valente

a bottle of wine and 2 joints
Zahira "Kasparov" Bakr

A Leo's muffin #shameluss Plug
Maxwell "Top Rung" Magnusson

Shards of broken glass, makes it go down easier
Cynthia

Copious amounts of vodka
Jaden "Bonar Institute" Desveaux

A mental breakdown about the upcoming exam
Roland Neill

Dracula Flow 3
Dracula Flow 3

Orbital mechanics (Steve would be so proud)
Charlie "boogie" Brockmann

Idk never had eggnog
Khaled "Arms For Hire" Ghannoum

2. What musical talent do you want to see release a full holiday album this year?

The co-junior ladders
Khaled "Arms For Hire" Ghannoum

Plankton has been on a roll with covers. I'd love to see his take on christmas
Arlana Davis

AC/DC 12 days of Christmas
James Classen

Little big.... PLEASE GOD IT WOULD FUCK SO HARD
Charlie "boogie" Brockmann

the only correct answer is my chemical romance
Zahira "Kasparov" Bakr

The SREsoc Exec
Maxwell "Top Rung" Magnusson

Lana Del Rey for my wintertime sadness
Jaden "Bonar Institute" Desveaux

Owen Short
Shanna Peper

The dracula flow guy
Jules Wong

Dracula Flow 3
Dracula Flow 3

Charlie on the recorder
Kassidy "Clinton" Hammond

Ludwig Van Beethoven comes back from the dead to release his Greatest Christmas Hits
Chris Meiling

ASMR cider pressing.
Jaime Kfour

We need Sounds of the Season: The Taylor Swift Holiday Collection (Taylor's Version), and we need it NOW
Avery "#HYDRATION HERO" Kohlruss

jesus christ himself
Bramble "The Saltier" Bramble

3. If you could make a collectible trading card of anything, what would you want a perfect card of?

kraft dinner and ketchup
Owen Short

collectible trading cards of trading cards.. i want a card with a picture of a shiny charizard pokemon card on it
Jaime Sexton

Salami, the CUE Lunch Meat director
Bramble "The Saltier" Bramble

Prime Minister Boris Johnson
Jason Valente

Carleton seats, including toilets. NN 182 3rd row, 3rd seat is mine.
Cynthia

Kevins circle beard
Ishaan Kambhoj

Reputable and reliable locally-built heritage cider presses.
Jaime Kfour

Jason Valente
Chris Meiling

club execs, but a full game like pokemon not just one card
Arlana Davis

Everyone's third year airplanes
Kassidy "Clinton" Hammond

Michael Silveira's doggy style photo
Shanna Peper

Leo's items (I'd have the mint condition 36-airhead box red variant)
Charlie "boogie" Brockmann

photos of all the furniture on the thing
James Classen

All the Dracula Flow's
Kaelan Khan

Dracula Flow 3
Dracula Flow 3
social engineering
Zahira "Kasparov" Bakr
big booty mixes
VP "Deep Storage" Knobel
Social Engineering
Shanna Peper

4. The FED has unveiled its new engineering program at Carleton, what is it?

aerospace stream g - how to deal with denial
Ethan "Hardened criminal" Alvares

Aero stream x: Aerospace sex toy engineering
Roland Neill

Dracula Flow 3
Dracula Flow 3

Communicating Engineering, not to be confused with Communications Engineering. In Communicating Engineering you learn how to translate whatever the fuck the engineer is trying to say into normal people talk
Avery "#HYDRATION HERO" Kohlruss

Metaphysical Engineering
Jason Valente

Mechanics
Cynthia

Mechanics (derogatory)
Kassidy "Clinton" Hammond

The shit show that is mechatronics
Khaled "Arms For Hire" Ghannoum

toothbrush
Owen Short

Mental engineering (it teaches ways not to go crazy doing eng)
James Classen

Engineering of Structural support for your mom
Kevin "Bottom Rung" Fernando

Ballin'
Jules Wong

melec paingeneering, its the worst parts of mech and elec with less ability to get a job
Arlana Davis

social engineering
Zahira "Kasparov" Bakr

Throwing stockings full of coal through the windows of the rich families.
Chris Meiling

5. What are your plans for the holiday season coming up?

Eating garbage and passing out crying/drunk
Cynthia

Stop santa from stealing my short friends to be his elves
Kevin "Bottom Rung" Fernando

Finish my last exam on the 22nd. Fly to Toronto on the 23rd, have an 8 hour layover starting at 11pm, go downtown, become revoltingly drunk, get back to Pearson and be home in NS by 9am
Jaden "Bonar Institute" Desveaux

Heavy drinking
James Classen

make up more things for my international friend to believe (snowworms)
Jaime Sexton

https://youtu.be/N-7gbWKbX-bQ?si=3FNxdFfAXMKe0yyC
Dracula Flow 3

deactivate and get put back in my closet until the next semester
Arlana Davis

Sandwich myself between a heated blanket and a weighted blanket and sleep for three weeks (at least)
Jules Wong

Mentally recover from all the exams I failed
Roland Neill

Aforementioned bout of fisticuffs paired with a fine snifter of the biblically accurate 'nog.
Jaime Kfour

Spending time back home with family with the occasional "Oh shit, I should be studying!" followed by the realization, that I in fact do not need to be studying
Avery "#HYDRATION HERO" Kohlruss

Making lots of plans, watching most of them fall through and then sleeping through the break instead.
Jacc

Throwing stockings full of coal through the windows of the rich families.
Chris Meiling

TAROT READINGS

with Maria "Dumb Fuck" Velikanova
CRIM III

Coming to you from the depths of my rot room and my pile of responsibilities, this is me (Maria) back to answer your burning questions. This issue's question that sparked the divine entities' attention is:

"What scandal will strike Leo's this year?"

The deck that you chose is the Nightmare Before Christmas tarot deck. Let's delve into this :)

The Cards

First Card

Your first card is the II of Needles. This card is in its upright position. The meaning of this card (on its own) is "Something heavy is on your mind. You've been racking your brain over a predicament, trying to come up with a solution that benefits everyone involved. Make sure you're seeing things as they really are. You need all the facts before you can make up your mind".

Second Card

Your second card is the VII of Potions. This card is in its reversed position. The meaning of this card (also on its own) is "You have a lot of options in front of you, and each of them seems dreamier than the last. It's easy to get caught up in idealistic thinking now, so make sure you're seeing things as they really are. Don't be fooled by smoke and mirrors. If you find yourself presented with something that seems too good to be true, be careful, because it probably is".

Third Card

Your third card is the II of Presents. This card is also in its reversed position. The meaning of this card (yet again, on its own) is "You're struggling to manage your time, money, or energy, and it's starting to affect you negatively. If you have too much on your plate, reevaluate your commitments. Analyze your expenses and cash flow, delegate tasks, and make meaningful changes that will create balance into your life".

Fourth Card

Your fourth and final card is the Queen of Needles. This card is in its upright position. On its own, the meaning of this card is "The Queen of Needles is intelligent, intellectual, and sensible. She takes time to make up her own mind and isn't easily swayed by trends, fads, or popular opinion. Fair and practical, the Queen of Needles shouldn't be underestimated. This card is a call to remember how strong you really are".

The Reading

Based on this reading, this year's Leo's scandal will be that someone will steal an entire coke fridge, along with its products, and then try to give the products away for free. Drawing upon the first card, whoever spearheads this plan is going to try to negotiate lowered Leo's prices with the managers.

The managers will be put in a tough spot, trying to come up with a reasonable solution, taking both sides of the situation into consideration. Drawing upon the second card, the managers might be offered these free products as a way

2. What do you need to watch out for?	3. What actions will benefit you?
1. What does this event have in store for you?	4. Result/ consequences connected to this event.

of temptation to strike a negotiation. If someone comes up to you offering products that look identical to the supply that the Coke manager gets delivered, don't take them. Leo's will lose money if you do. The free drinks are too good to be true.

For the third card, the actions that will be beneficial are becoming too busy to give these dealmakers any time and attention. Do homework, sign up for some clubs, go out, get a job. The managers need to become so busy that it takes up their time and energy. Will it be awful to be this busy? Yes. Literally just do everything and anything that will keep yourselves away from this situation. The consequences of being too busy will figure themselves out.

The final card tells me that the managers will be able to get the fridge and the stock back by declining the drink offer. This is the Leo's managers we're talking about... No amount of free soda, Monster, juice, or Peace Tea will cause them to change the prices, especially if it's stolen stock. The managers will girlboss their way out of this mischievous situation, and they will persevere. Maybe they'll get a good laugh out of the fact that an entire fridge managed to skiddaddle away from Leo's though.

I hope this reading was insightful, if it seems absolutely whacky and smells like misinformation, just don't believe it lol. To everyone else reading this, feel free to submit your questions to the Iron Times! These are really fun to interpret. Until next time,

HOROSCOPES

As divined by Belle "Sticker" Henderson | MECH III

ARIES

You will not be beating the furry allegations this month. Turn that long face upside down and ignore those neigsayers.

TAURUS

A new study technique is going to have you pushing the record for longest time spent awake. Say hi to the Hat Man for me.

GEMINI

CANCER

A spider bite is going to have you thinking you're turning into spiderman for a few days this month. In reality, it was a vampire spider, and you're turning into morbius.

LEO

this month you're going to find out that you're related to the Leo of Leo's lounge. that's right. all of you. Mr. DaVinci got around.

VIRGO

One of your exams is going to be scheduled in the 6th block of the Mackenzie building and no one else in that class is going to think that's weird. On the day of your exam and only on that day the 6th block of Mackenzie will exist and you will have the best muffin of your life from Leo's 2 and it will cost 75 cents.

LIBRA

a simple mix up at the airport is going to send you in one direction and your luggage in another, and neither of these directions are going to be the one you wanted to go in. The stars wish you luck.

SCORPIO

The combination of school and ridiculously short days is going to result in you not seeing the sun for an extended period of time this month. This is going to cause your now-nocturnal body to develop an allergy to the light of day. You can hang out with spider-morbius.

SAGITTARIUS

the person sitting beside you is going to piss themselves during one of your exams this month. If you try to avoid this by not sitting beside anyone, it'll probably be you who pisses himself.

CAPRICORN

Big month for yummy treats. Expect to see a lot of yummy treats this month, I'm talking critical levels of yummy treats coming up in your life.

AQUARIUS

Whatever day it feels like for you right now is the day it's going to feel like for the rest of this month. If today feels like a friday, congratulations, you get a month of blind optimism and the prospect of drinking. If today feels like a Tuesday...

PISCES

the ghosts of christmas past, present, and future are coming back this month and this time they mean business. you should probably start thinking about charities to donate all your money to now.

USES FOR THE CHARLATAN

wrap all of your presents

make paper santa hats

kindling

set it on fire to light the menorah set it on fire AGAIN to light the kinara reinforce your gingerbread house set it on fire to warm your cold, frozen toes

why does so much of this involve fire?

arson.

Now brought to you by:

James "العربي" Dublin
BIOELEC III

Q.

Is ketchup allowed on kraft dinner?
-Owen Short

A.

If you put ketchup on kraft dinner you deserve to step on legos and get water on your socks in the morning.

Q.

Will civils ever find something other than concrete to eat and/or fuck?
-Shanna Pepper

A.

I mean they probably have but calling them rock fuckers is far more marketable.

Q.

When will I find the one...?
-Jaden "Bonar Institute" Desveaux

A.

The one is said to come before 2 but after 0, I'd suggest looking for it in the integer section that will save a lot of time.

Q.

will my afterlife be boring?
-Umniyah Mohammed

A.

Depends on if you fly up to Glen McRae or are cast down to the John Rodgers pit.

Q.

How does one avoid burnout? Also, how do I adopt a pet raccoon?
-Shanna Pepper

A.

Wait till the burnout numbs your extremities and then acquire your new friend british museum style.

Q.

Am I a good girl? -Cynthia

A.

You've been a very bad girl, engaging in a parasocial relationship with a newspaper column is a choice of all time.

Q.

Dear CENG people, my family doesn't quite get what engineers do, and truly I don't know what to respond. What should I tell them?

-Julien-Gabriel "The Chowboy" Tessier

A.

We transfer all our emotional intelligence into academic intelligence and hope we one day make enough money to get loved by someone.

Q.

Driving a stick shift.
-Thomas-Raingsey Bun

A.

Driving stick shift is just like pleasing a woman, unfortunately I'm in engineering so I know absolutely nothing in that realm. luckily my interest in Magic: The Gathering should prevent this from becoming an issue.

Q.

My brain broke-y, how to fix?
-Faye Nitta Mackay

A.

Find your own "unique" coping mechanism, maybe squishmallows or a caffeine addiction. Definitely not long term small goals and self improvement.

Q.

Help Leo's isn't paying tax again, how do I convince them that they can't win a stand-off against the CRA
-Chris "PP Services" Meiling

A.

Taxation is a choice much like height, age and wearing glasses, the only thing holding us back is the belief in these delusions

Got a Problem?

Need Some... Shitty Advice?

JAMES CAN "HELP"!

Write in to C-Eng Speaks! We want to exploit your problems hear from you!
The most recent submissions form can be found at: linktr.ee/TheIronTimes

This Month's Theme: The NYT

~An Easy Puzzle: Not Eng Related~

Edited by Will Shortz

ACROSS

- 1 Astrology chart
- 7 Inner parts of ears of corn
- 11 Newsstand item, informally
- 14 List of items to discuss at a meeting
- 15 Actress Taylor-Joy of "The Queen's Gambit"
- 16 Female sheep
- 17 Any facial feature of a man in the moon, in reality
- 18 Ale-simmered German sausage, informally
- 20 Villain's opposite
- 21 Actor Jannings of silent films
- 24 Unstated but understood
- 24 Vegetarian dish on a Mexican menu
- 26 Altimas and Pathfinders
- 30 One who keeps order on the court?
- 31 Hate
- 32 Noggin
- 35 Des Moines's home
- 39 French meat stew for which Julia Child penned a popular recipe
- 42 "Now!", in a hospital
- 43 Women's links grp.
- 44 Turn from cream to butter
- 45 Hairpiece
- 47 Fearsome African flies
- 49 Loaf often made with walnuts
- 54 Now, in Spanish
- 55 Towards the rising sun
- 56 Fight for breath
- 60 "Admittedly..." or, when said aloud, a punny desc
- 62 of 18, 24, 39 and 49 Acrss
- 64 One-of-a-kind
- 65 Rim
- 66 Fill up the gas tank again
- 67 The Blues, on scoreboards
- 68 Afflictions
- 69 Put to paper, as music

DOWN

- 1 Actor Braff of "Scrubs"
- 2 Fair tale monster
- 3 First word of many a letter
- 4 Excited about
- 5 Suffix with lemon or lime
- 6 Threaten to tip, as a wildly driven car
- 7 Woodsy home
- 8 Equivalent of 16 oz
- 9 "See ya!"
- 10 "No Exit!" playwright
- 11 Thanks, in Tours
- 12 Be in store for
- 13 Start annoying
- 19 Pub brawl
- 22 Song created from multiple songs
- 24 Sharp part of a wire fence
- 25 Pakistani language
- 26 Catches, as a criminal
- 27 "Yeah, o-o-o-kay ..."
- 28 ___ butter (ingredient in many cosmetics)
- 29 Computer programs
- 33 Energy unit
- 34 Colorful banded rocks
- 36 Weight to carry
- 37 Had on
- 38 Raggedy ___ (classic dolls)
- 40 ___ Korbust, four time Olympic gold-medal gymnast
- 41 Treated, as a sprain
- 46 "Soon"
- 48 Ringed planet
- 49 Alternatives to showers
- 50 Something hilarious
- 51 Prized declined by 10-Down
- 52 Neutral shade
- 53 Some hard to find collectibles
- 56 Present
- 57 Color lead-in to marine
- 58 Tallow source
- 59 One-named Brazilian soccer icon
- 61 Commotion
- 63 Keanu Reeve's role in the Matrix

DECEMBER

2023

Passport stamp events are now marked with these nifty icons!

SUNDAY	MONDAY	TUESDAY	WEDNESDAY	THURSDAY	FRIDAY	SATURDAY
					1 Pints With Profs w/SCESoc 5:30 – 8:00pm @ Mike's Place	2 CU Hiding Event CO2 Car Comp Race Day 11:30 – 4:00pm Gingerbread Engineering Competition w/CSCE 2-5pm
3	4 CMAS Co-op Conference w/CMAS 6 – 8pm @TBD	5	6 hAmp	7 Hanukkah	8	9 Cookies & Cram w/CSCE 2 – 5pm @TBD
10 Exams :(godspeed friends	11 Exams :(12 Exams :(13 Exams :(14 Exams :(15 Exams :(16 Exams :(
17	18	19	20 Christmas Eve Eve Eve Eve Eve	21 Christmas Eve Eve Eve Eve	22 Christmas Eve Eve Eve	23 Christmas Eve Eve
EXAAMS D:
24 Christmas Eve	25 Christmas	26 Boxing Day	27	28 CELC Pre-Week @Mun	29	30

SUBMIT TO NEXT MONTH'S

Iron Times

SEND US YOUR:

Articles
Pictures
Answers to C-Eng Speaks

WE WANT IT ALL!
Most recent submissions can be found at:
linktr.ee/TheIronTimes

HAVE YOU HEARD OF

TARDIS ?

ITS A CANTEEN / LOUNGE FOR STUDENTS IN ENGINEERING AND DESIGN!

A PLACE TO CHILL ...

PIZZAS!

$1.50

MUFFINS!

WE HAVE THE CHEAPEST FOOD ON CAMPUS

COFFEE

PLAY SOME EUCHRE!

OR STUDY BETWEEN CLASSES.

SANDWICHES!

DRINKS

AND MORE

VOLUNTEER RUN BY STUDENTS FOR STUDENTS

LOCATED AT 3342 MACKENZIE BUILDING

LOOK FOR THE BLUE TARDIS DOORS.

EDITORS-IN-CHIEF:
ZAHIRA BAKR & EM SMULDERS

VP PUBLICATIONS:
EMILY KNOBEL

SPECIAL THANKS TO:

ME.

BIG BOOTY MIXES

EVERY SOCIETY WHO GAVE US A HOLIDAY CARD <3

ISSUE MADE POSSIBLE BY:

SPIKED EGGNOG

COPIOUS AMOUNTS OF PHOTOSHOP

GOLDFISH CRACKERS